NFL Probabilities - Steelers Claim AFC Championship & Advance To Super Bowl XLV

The Pittsburgh Steelers got out to a 24-0 lead in the AFC Championship and then hosted on for dear life as they beat the Jets 24-19, just covering the 3.5 point spread.

The Steelers owned the 1st half but then did virtually nothing in the 2nd half. The Jets made a game of it but still couldn't get the win or the cover versus football gambling probabilities at the sports book.

Unightly Win

The Steelers started strong but overall they won an unsightly match. QB Ben Roethlisberger had a passer rating of 35.5 on Sunday but he made the performs when it counted and won yet another huge match. When the Steelers necessary a huge play it was Major Ben who delivered. Roethlisberger led the Steelers to their third Super Bowl appearance in the last five years. The Steelers squads of 2005 and 2008 both won the Super Bowl with Huge Ben in charge.

First Half

The Pittsburgh Steelers dominated the New York Jets in the 1st half as they got out to a 24-3 lead. Running back Rashard Mendenhall had 95 of his 121 yards and a TD in the 1st half. The Steelers performed like a team with a major lead in the 2nd half and it nearly cost them the competition.

Dominate Defense

The Pittsburgh Steelers ended the regular season with the #1 defense in the NFL and it was on display on Sunday. The defense made a substantial play in the 1st half as Ike Taylor sacked New York QB Mark Sanchez compelling a fumble and William Gay ran it in from 22 yards out for a TD.

Late Rally Falls Short

The NY Jets cut the Pittsburgh lead to 24-19 with 3:06 remaining as Mark Sanchez hit Jerricho Cotchery for a short Touchdown pass. The issue for the NY Jets is that they never got the ball back again. New York actually wound up outgaining the Steelers in the match however the big fumble return for a TD and the bad 1st half was just excessive for the NY Jets to get over although they made things intriguing at the end.

Steelers Long shots in Super Bowl XLV

Pittsburgh opened as a 1.5 point longshot in NFL prospects for Super Bowl XLV versus Green Bay and that Football betting probabilities number moved up to 2.5 only following being released. The community has been gambling Green Bay the past couple of weeks plus they are already betting them again in the Super Bowl.
